

IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE SOUTHERN DISTRICT OF GEORGIA
STATESBORO DIVISION

GARY COUCH,

Plaintiff,

v.

MARTY ALLEN; and TREVONZA
BOBBITT,

Defendants.

CIVIL ACTION NO.: 6:17-cv-21

ORDER and MAGISTRATE JUDGE’S REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

Plaintiff, an inmate at Georgia State Prison in Reidsville, Georgia, brought this suit contesting certain conditions of his confinement pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. (Doc. 1.) For the reasons which follow, the Court DENIES Plaintiff’s Motion for Leave to Proceed in Forma Pauperis. (Doc. 2.) Additionally, I RECOMMEND that the Court DISMISS without prejudice Plaintiff’s Complaint, (doc. 1), and DIRECT the Clerk of Court to CLOSE this case. I also RECOMMEND that the Court DENY Plaintiff in forma pauperis status on appeal.

BACKGROUND

Plaintiff filed a Complaint on February 1, 2017, alleging that Defendants: denied him access to the courts; subjected him to unsanitary living conditions, including exposure to rats and bugs; denied his due process rights; failed to protect him against an attack by another inmate and a sexual assault by a correctional officer; discriminated and retaliated against him; and exhibited deliberate indifference to his serious medical needs. (Doc. 1, pp. 3–4.) Specifically, Plaintiff appears to contend that Defendants confined Plaintiff in a cell with a rival gang member who assaulted him. (Doc. 1-1, p. 2.)

STANDARD OF REVIEW

Plaintiff seeks to bring this action in forma pauperis and pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Under 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(1), the Court may authorize the filing of a civil lawsuit without the prepayment of fees if the plaintiff submits an affidavit that includes a statement of all of his assets and shows an inability to pay the filing fee and also includes a statement of the nature of the action which shows that he is entitled to redress. Even if the plaintiff proves indigence, the Court must dismiss the action if it is frivolous or malicious, or fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted. 28 U.S.C. §§ 1915(e)(2)(B)(i)–(ii). Additionally, pursuant to 28 U.S.C. § 1915A, the Court must review a complaint in which a prisoner seeks redress from a governmental entity. Upon such screening, the Court must dismiss a complaint, or any portion thereof, that is frivolous or malicious, or fails to state a claim upon which relief may be granted or which seeks monetary relief from a defendant who is immune from such relief. 28 U.S.C. § 1915A(b).

When reviewing a Complaint on an application to proceed in forma pauperis, the Court is guided by the instructions for pleading contained in the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. See Fed. R. Civ. P. 8 (“A pleading that states a claim for relief must contain [among other things] . . . a short and plain statement of the claim showing that the pleader is entitled to relief.”); Fed. R. Civ. P. 10 (requiring that claims be set forth in numbered paragraphs, each limited to a single set of circumstances). Further, a claim is frivolous under Section 1915(e)(2)(B)(i) “if it is ‘without arguable merit either in law or fact.’” Napier v. Preslicka, 314 F.3d 528, 531 (11th Cir. 2002) (quoting Bilal v. Driver, 251 F.3d 1346, 1349 (11th Cir. 2001)).

Whether a complaint fails to state a claim under Section 1915(e)(2)(B)(ii) is governed by the same standard applicable to motions to dismiss under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6). Thompson v. Rundle, 393 F. App'x 675, 678 (11th Cir. 2010). Under that standard, this Court must determine whether the complaint contains “sufficient factual matter, accepted as true, to ‘state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.’” Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009) (quoting Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007)). A plaintiff must assert “more than labels and conclusions, and a formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not” suffice. Twombly, 550 U.S. at 555. Section 1915 also “accords judges not only the authority to dismiss a claim based on an indisputably meritless legal theory, but also the unusual power to pierce the veil of the complaint’s factual allegations and dismiss those claims whose factual contentions are clearly baseless.” Bilal, 251 F.3d at 1349 (quoting Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 327 (1989)).

In its analysis, the Court will abide by the long-standing principle that the pleadings of unrepresented parties are held to a less stringent standard than those drafted by attorneys and, therefore, must be liberally construed. Haines v. Kerner, 404 U.S. 519, 520 (1972); Boxer X v. Harris, 437 F.3d 1107, 1110 (11th Cir. 2006) (“Pro se pleadings are held to a less stringent standard than pleadings drafted by attorneys.”) (emphasis omitted) (quoting Hughes v. Lott, 350 F.3d 1157, 1160 (11th Cir. 2003)). However, Plaintiff’s unrepresented status will not excuse mistakes regarding procedural rules. McNeil v. United States, 508 U.S. 106, 113 (1993) (“We have never suggested that procedural rules in ordinary civil litigation should be interpreted so as to excuse mistakes by those who proceed without counsel.”).

DISCUSSION

I. Dismissal for Abuse of Judicial Process

As noted above, Plaintiff has moved to proceed in forma pauperis in this action. The form Complaint filed by Plaintiff directly asked whether Plaintiff had filed any “other lawsuits in state or federal court otherwise relating to the conditions of [his] imprisonment” and directed Plaintiff to describe any additional lawsuits. (Doc. 1, pp. 9–10.) In response, Plaintiff disclosed one prior lawsuit, Couch v. Taylor, et al., 5:15-cv-26 (M.D. Ga. Feb. 3, 2015). The form Complaint also asked whether Plaintiff had filed any “other lawsuits in state or federal court dealing with the same facts involved in this action” and directed Plaintiff to describe any additional lawsuits. (Doc. 1, p. 9.) (emphasis added). In the Complaint, Plaintiff indicated that he had filed no other lawsuits dealing with the same facts alleged in his present Complaint and indicated that the seven follow-up questions concerning such lawsuits were “not applicable”. (Id.) Despite Plaintiff’s assertions to the contrary, the case management system shows that Plaintiff has brought at least one additional lawsuit in federal court while he was incarcerated or detained prior to filing this action: Compl., Couch v. Stanley, et al., 6:16-cv-44 (S.D. Ga. Apr. 18, 2016), ECF No. 1. Furthermore, a review of Plaintiff’s complaint in Case No. 6:16-cv-44 reveals that he alleged the same claims in that case as he does in his Complaint in this case.¹

As previously stated, Section 1915 requires a court to dismiss a prisoner’s action if, at any time, the court determines that it is frivolous or malicious, fails to state a claim, or seeks relief from an immune defendant. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(e)(2)(B). Significantly, “[a] finding that the plaintiff engaged in bad faith litigiousness or manipulative tactics warrants dismissal” under ¹ See R. & R., Couch v. Stanley, et al., 6:16-cv-44 (S.D. Ga. Nov. 3, 2016), ECF No. 28, p. 2 (“Defendants Robinson and Hunt moved Plaintiff to a different cell with a rival gang member where he was allegedly raped and assaulted Plaintiff then includes allegations regarding the prison conditions in the lock-down cells, including mold, rats, bugs, and lack of emergency call buttons.”).

Section 1915. Redmon v. Lake Cty. Sheriff's Office, 414 F. App'x 221, 225 (11th Cir. 2011) (alteration in original) (quoting Attwood v. Singletary, 105 F.3d 610, 613 (11th Cir. 1997)). In addition, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 11(c) permits a court to impose sanctions, including dismissal, for “knowingly fil[ing] a pleading that contains false contentions.” Id. at 225–26 (citing Fed. R. Civ. P. 11(c)). Again, although pro se pleadings are to be construed liberally, “a plaintiff’s pro se status will not excuse mistakes regarding procedural rules.” Id. at 226.

Relying on this authority, the Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit has consistently upheld the dismissal of cases where a pro se prisoner plaintiff has failed to disclose his previous lawsuits as required on the face of the Section 1983 complaint form. See, e.g., Redmon, 414 F. App'x at 226 (pro se prisoner’s nondisclosure of prior litigation in Section 1983 complaint amounted to abuse of judicial process resulting in sanction of dismissal); Shelton v. Rohrs, 406 F. App'x 340, 341 (11th Cir. 2010) (same); Young v. Sec’y Fla. for Dep’t of Corr., 380 F. App'x 939, 941 (11th Cir. 2010) (same); Hood v. Tompkins, 197 F. App'x 818, 819 (11th Cir. 2006) (same). Even where the prisoner has later provided an explanation for his lack of candor, the Court has generally rejected the proffered reason as unpersuasive. See, e.g., Redmon, 414 F. App'x at 226 (“The district court did not abuse its discretion in concluding that Plaintiff’s explanation for his failure to disclose the Colorado lawsuit—that he misunderstood the form—did not excuse the misrepresentation and that dismissal was a proper sanction.”); Shelton, 406 F. App'x at 341 (“Even if [the plaintiff] did not have access to his materials, he would have known that he filed multiple previous lawsuits.”); Young, 380 F. App'x at 941 (finding that not having documents concerning prior litigation and not being able to pay for copies of same did not absolve prisoner plaintiff “of the requirement of disclosing, at a minimum, all of the information that was known to him”); Hood, 197 F. App'x at 819 (“The objections were considered, but the district court was correct to conclude that to allow [the plaintiff] to then acknowledge what he should have disclosed earlier would serve to overlook his abuse of the judicial process.”).

Another district court in this Circuit explained the importance of an inmate’s prior litigation disclosures as follows:

[t]he inquiry concerning a prisoner’s prior lawsuits is not a matter of idle curiosity, nor is it an effort to raise meaningless obstacles to a prisoner’s access to the courts. Rather, the existence of prior litigation initiated by a prisoner is required in order for the Court to apply 28 U.S.C. § 1915(g) (the “three strikes rule” applicable to prisoners proceeding in forma pauperis). Additionally, it has been the Court’s experience that a significant number of prisoner filings raise claims or issues that have already been decided adversely to the prisoner in prior litigation. . . . Identification of prior litigation frequently enables the Court to dispose of successive cases without further expenditure of finite judicial resources.

Brown v. Saintavil, No. 2:14-CV-599-FTM-29, 2014 WL 5780180, at *3 (M.D. Fla. Nov. 5, 2014) (emphasis omitted).

As Plaintiff filed at least one other lawsuit while detained, he falsified his litigation history in his Complaint by disclosing only one of his previous lawsuits. The plain language of the complaint form is clear—first asking Plaintiff whether he has ever filed other lawsuits in state or federal court dealing with the same facts involved in this action, (doc. 1, p. 9), then asking whether Plaintiff, while incarcerated or detained, has ever filed other lawsuits in state or federal court otherwise relating to the conditions of his imprisonment, (id.), and finally asking Plaintiff to describe any prior lawsuits relating to the conditions of his imprisonment, (id. at p. 10). While Plaintiff disclosed one of those prior lawsuits, he failed to disclose the prior lawsuit in which he alleged the same facts as he alleges in the instant Complaint. Accordingly, Plaintiff falsified his litigation history on two separate portions of the Complaint form submitted to this Court. Regardless of the outcome of Plaintiff’s prior lawsuits, his initiations of those lawsuits are the precise type of activity for which these prompts require disclosure.

Plaintiff failed to fully disclose the existence and disposition of his prior lawsuits, and his blatant dishonesty before this Court and disregard of his duty of candor cannot be excused. Consequently, the Court DENIES Plaintiff's Motion for Leave to Proceed in Forma Pauperis for failure to truthfully disclose his litigation history. Additionally, the Court should DISMISS this action without prejudice for Plaintiff's failure to truthfully disclose his litigation history as required.

II. Leave to Appeal in Forma Pauperis

The Court should also deny Plaintiff leave to appeal in forma pauperis.² Though Plaintiff has, of course, not yet filed a notice of appeal, it would be appropriate to address these issues in the Court's order of dismissal. Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(3) (trial court may certify that appeal is not taken in good faith "before or after the notice of appeal is filed").

An appeal cannot be taken in forma pauperis if the trial court certifies that the appeal is not taken in good faith. 28 U.S.C. § 1915(a)(3); Fed. R. App. P. 24(a)(3). Good faith in this context must be judged by an objective standard. Busch v. Cty. of Volusia, 189 F.R.D. 687, 691 (M.D. Fla. 1999). A party does not proceed in good faith when he seeks to advance a frivolous claim or argument. See Coppedge v. United States, 369 U.S. 438, 445 (1962). A claim or argument is frivolous when it appears the factual allegations are clearly baseless or the legal theories are indisputably meritless. Neitzke v. Williams, 490 U.S. 319, 327 (1989); Carroll v. Gross, 984 F.2d 392, 393 (11th Cir. 1993). Or, stated another way, an in forma pauperis action is frivolous and, thus, not brought in good faith, if it is "without arguable merit either in law or fact." Napier v. Preslicka, 314 F.3d 528, 531 (11th Cir. 2002); see also Brown v. United States, Nos. 407CV085, 403CR001, 2009 WL 307872, at *1–2 (S.D. Ga. Feb. 9, 2009).

Based on the above analysis of Plaintiff's action, there are no non-frivolous issues to raise on appeal, and an appeal would not be taken in good faith. Thus, the Court should DENY in forma pauperis status on appeal.

CONCLUSION

Based on the foregoing, the Court DENIES Plaintiff's Motion for Leave to Proceed in Forma Pauperis. (Doc. 2.) Additionally, I RECOMMEND that the Court DISMISS without prejudice Plaintiff's Complaint, filed pursuant to 42 U.S.C. § 1983, and DIRECT the Clerk of Court to CLOSE this case. I also RECOMMEND that the Court DENY Plaintiff in forma pauperis status on appeal.

The Court ORDERS any party seeking to object to this Report and Recommendation to file specific written objections within fourteen (14) days of the date on which this Report and Recommendation is entered. Any objections asserting that the Magistrate Judge failed to address any contention raised in the Complaint must also be included. Failure to do so will bar any later challenge or review of the factual findings or legal conclusions of the Magistrate Judge. See 28 U.S.C. § 636(b)(1)(C); Thomas v. Arn, 474 U.S. 140 (1985). A copy of the objections must be served upon all other parties to the action. The filing of objections is not a proper vehicle through which to make new allegations or present additional evidence.

Upon receipt of Objections meeting the specificity requirement set out above, a United States District Judge will make a de novo determination of those portions of the report, proposed findings, or recommendation to which objection is made and may accept, reject, or modify in whole or in part, the findings or recommendations made by the Magistrate Judge. Objections not meeting the specificity requirement set out above will not be considered by a District Judge. A party may not appeal a Magistrate Judge's report and recommendation directly to the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit. Appeals may be made only from a final judgment entered by or at the direction of a District Judge. The Court DIRECTS the Clerk of Court to serve a copy of this Report and Recommendation upon Plaintiff.

SO ORDERED and REPORTED and RECOMMENDED, this 13th day of February, 2017.
